Some twelve years ago I found that I had accumulated a great amount of material in the form of brief abstracts from the records of the circuit or county courts, and from archival and other repositories. There was so much of this material and it was doing so little good to any one, especially to the collector, that it seemed a pity not to give it out in some form. Of course, after the collector's death it would be open to limited research, but it looked as if even that might be rather far ahead. So I started the COUNTY COURT NOTE-BOOK, sincerely desiring to be of some use to my countrymen, three-quarters of whom—or at least their sisters, or their cousins or their aunts—appeared to be extremely desirous to know more about their ancestry.

So I started the NOTE-BOOK. It was a foolish thing to do, and it began wrong with its name. For its editor had no idea that the old county court, so real to her, with its friendly Clerks, its terribly dusty volumes, its open fires and its draughty doors, but with so priceless a mass of records—the editor had no idea that this meant nothing to many readers, unless it might be a suggestion of criminal causes or mortgages upon their real estate.

There were other mistakes, but in spite of them the NOTE-BOOK came into existence and has been kept going for ten years—counting by volumes. It was hard work, and if “financial returns” are a measure of success, there was no success. But I, the editor (and everything but the printer) grew very fond of my NOTE-BOOK and there have been quite a number of subscribers who have written to me so encouragingly, that sometimes I thought my work was quite worth while. Besides, there was no easy way to stop off. Thousands of marriage references, testimony as to Revolutionary service, hundreds of references to the migrations of our restless colonials, and many quaint items from the county courts illustrating so clearly the mind and manners of our early days.

However, the difficulty of publication became too great, so the C. C. N-B. has been withdrawn from circulation. But as much material remains as has been published, and it still seems in the compiler's considerate judgment, to be as valuable as ever, so this Occasional Bulletin is projected in order to use up that surplus. If my readers are willing to pay for publication this first number will be followed by others, not only of the two thousand marriages which remain, but a really important ALPHABET OF DAVISES. Your approval is awaited.

EXPLANATORY

It is to be understood that the "inferred marriages" which begin upon the first page of this pamphlet are only in a small percentage based upon actual marriage returns, either by ministers or as occasionally given in records of the county courts-----more properly called Circuit Courts. Usually these references are taken from wills, settlements of estates, administration accounts, conveyances of land, or from marriage licenses or marriage license bonds. These last two sources are not to be considered as actual proof of marriage, though with rare exceptions the marriage may be considered to have occurred after the filing of the bond and the issuance of the license.

The question of a license being proof of a marriage was strongly impressed upon the then somewhat inexperienced compiler by a gentleman high up in both law and genealogy. The compiler was seated upon a most uncomfortable high stool in the record room of the Clerk of the Court of Baltimore county, probably after hours, and was "paging" a thick volume of marriage licenses. Mr. Story, the gentleman referred to, came up to her and said "You know these are not really marriages" . . . explaining that they were only proof that a marriage was intended.

But the exceptions are very few, at least in the earlier years.

The notation "before" is usually the best that can be done as to the date of the marriage. The "before" may cover a generation or a few months. This should be kept in mind.

In order to save space, the distinction "Deed Book" or "Land Record" or "Will Record", &c., has not usually been made. "A" or "B", &c., may refer to one of two or more series of records. The volumes are not difficult of identification (except in the numerous classifications of the early Orphans' Court) and the compiler of this list will be willing at any time to refer to her note-books and enlarge upon any reference. (Kindly, however, send postage.)

A few of these items have been heretofore published in the COUNTY COURT NOTE-BOOK. Sometimes accidental, occasionally a new and better reference has been found, or an error is corrected.

Spelling of names-----the variations in spelling, are not, as a rule of great importance, and need not be enlarged upon; there is hardly a name which has travelled down the generations before 1800, which has not had its mutations. ROBINSON may be ROBERTSON, (and often should be) or ROBISON, ROBERSON, ROBBISSON, or ROBESON, &c. STERLING and be STARLING, and the initial "H" is subject at times to local aspiration or non-aspiration. In the matter of fore-names much of interest could be said. The compiler in some recent exploration on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, discovered the original name of PEREGRINE (quite common in that section) had become condensed to Pere, pronounced Perry and possibly it settled down to that in some localities.

There are few Virginia publications that can compare in thoroughness, in accuracy, and in absolute value with the digests compiled and published by the late STRATTON NOTTINGHAM, of Accomack county. Had he lived he would, no doubt, have completed a transcription of the court records of that shut-in section, as also of the neighboring tide-water counties. The work he did, however, was extraordinary in its scope, and it is fortunate that a number of the volumes are still available for public or private libraries.
